

glow in the dawn

by SANDRASTOPPANY

In fog the world
is still at rest,
soon you will see
when the veil falls.

Before dawn in autumn and winter, everything seems to stand still while waiting for the first ray of light.
The woods and fields dream on without missing the human presence.

A morning affected by fog,
evolving a surreal,
cold and mystic character,
leaving it up to your imagination to peek behind it's veil.
The fog figuratively stands for something that blur
the viewers outlook,
physical and spiritual.
At the same time,
through this clouded view, one is left hoping for something untroubled behind.

«Surreal morning
wafts of mist
as if a cloud
had kissed
the earth
in a moment
of ethereal bliss.»
